Over Columbus Day Weekend, Troop 73 will venture to Cape Cod for camping, cooking, biking, and enjoying the great autumn weather in New England. We'll meet at the W.P.M.S. on Saturday morning, and depart for the Cape as soon as we've confirmed that everyone is well-packed and prepared for our weekend adventure. We'll arrive and check in to our campsite with plenty of time to leisurely have lunch and set up camp. We'll have the rest of the afternoon to work on Scouting skills, play a large game, and explore Camp. In the evening, after preparing and cleaning up from dinner, we can expect an excellent campfire hosted by our own Master of Ceremonies, Matthew Whitaker.

On Sunday, after breakfast in the campsite, we'll shuttle to the cycling outfitter to get our bikes and hit the trail. There should be at least three different options for Scouts to choose from on Sunday – a long bike trek option, a shorter bike trek option, and a no bike-trek option; for those who aren't avid cyclists, there will be an alternate program available. Whichever option you choose, everyone should have a great day exploring Cape Cod – on bike or not – under the supervision of our adult leaders, of course.

There are other activities to throw into the mix – which may include lighthouses, a nature/history museum, a campfire on the beach, a clam-shack lunch, and more!

After a restful night, we'll prepare a good breakfast, clean up, break camp and head for home. We'll be back in White Plains in the early afternoon on Monday.
